Dear Stan.

I find myself in a severe state of agitation over opening up X-MEN #56 and seeing the name of Neal Adams among the credits. Personally, I think his style is fantostic. However, I am curious as to how Marvel came by him. I fear that you might be trading Buscema for Adoms. This is the essence of my letter. Neal Adoms has real talent. I would love to have him on your staff. However, Buscema must remain please. But, what if I am wrong? Could it be that Buscema could remain on, say the SILVER SURFER and Adams could do the X-MEN, or some other strip for the Opposition, too? This, I would find agreeable. At any rate, I would like to have this letter printed and know your answer. Thank you and may you prosper. Excelsion

lain Juli, 9 Moonsheen Drive Ontario, Canada

lain, your letter has hurt us to the quick. What in the name of the baneful Banshee ever persuaded you to think that we "traded" artists, like baseball teams trade players? Sure, we're big Neal Adams baosters and always have been - but remember, it was with Marvel that Big John Buscema first became a force to be reckoned within the annals of comicdom . . . and he's one cataclysmic catch we'll never let get away If we can help it!

Wonder how these rumors get started, anyhow . . . 17

Dear Stan,

I usually think complements are useless; and if a man does a good job, it is to be expected. Here, in this rare instance, I must compliment Neal Adams on his work on the X-MEN. In my opinion, he is one of your best pencillers

Please answer a few questions, now. Who does the coloring on Neal Adams' work? Is it Mr. A. himself? Also, why don't you put the colorer's name in the credits? After all, you have Steranko, Stan G., Marie Severin, and Gene Colan who do coloring chares. After reading some SHIELD and DOCTOR STRANGE, I am convinced that good coloring can add as much to your art work as the inking or lettering

I have long been wanting to compliment you on giving the credits as to the story, penals, inks, and lettering. Many companies give only writer and artist, or only writer, and some not even that much, instead, only the publisher's name is given. I salute you and bid you keep up the good work. David Strickland, 5719 Velasco Dollas, Texas 75206

We will, Dave - and the first thing we'll do on that score is to correct your misimpression that it's artist Gene Colon who colors DR. STRANGE. For the past half year or so, these sorcery sagas have been colored by inker Tom Palmer ... no mean slouch with the watercolors himself! (While inker Sam Grainger has colored several recent AVENGERS tales!)

As to the reason why we don't include coloring credits along with those of aditor, writer, artists, and letterer, the answer is simple. When the book is edited (its last step before being sent to the printer), we still do not know just who will color the job. Of course, we have a reasonably good idea on certain strips, we can't be certain that any info we'd print would be correct After all, Mirthful Marie Sevens hasn't colored all of her SUB-MARINER epics, and, though Nefarious Neal has indeed colored all his X-MEN issues to date, who's to say that next month he won't be too busy to do 10?

Thus, and to say, we'll just have to continue to give out with such coloring credits as may interest Marveldom Assembled from time to time. And meanwhile, we might mention that, now that Stan G. is up to his Van Gogh just drawing MILLIE THE MODEL, most of our Marvel misadventures are colored by our own Fan-Tostic Foursome Shelf-like Sharon Cohen; Mischievous Michele Robinson; Peerless Paul Reinman; and the eld master himself, Wild Bill Everetti

There! Who says you have to talk about the X-Men just because it's an X-MEN letters page?

Dear Sten, Roy, and Neal,
You asked for comments on Neal Adoms's artwork in X-MEN #56. Well, it's great! I don't think there are too many artists with styles as totally original as Neal's. It always seems to me no matter who inks his pencils, they look the same. Also, Marvel always seems to grob all the really stylized artists. Why, you must have 90% of all artists that really have good styles! Keep Neal. That's an order! (Shouldn't be a hard one to follow, for I'm sure than many other fans feel the same way I do!) Don't confine him to X-MEN, either! Also, I am overjayed that Roy is once more on the X-MENI Joey Denham, Kilmuir P.E.I., Conada

So is he, Joey, for there's not a greater Adams fan in comicdom! And if you think the stuff that he and the Nefarious One have done together thus far is terrific -- wait'll you see some of the far-out foreys they've planned for the near future! They're mad, lad!

Dear Stan, Roy, and Neal,

It is my opinion as an art major that never before has Marvel had such an artist as Neal Adams! His bodies show not only power, but something that is usually lacking: emotion. I shall never forget the final panel of #56 showing Alex's face — well, what can I say? (Let me try!) I could feel his suffering and his pain — it was realistic. I don't ask much, but please keep Neal on X-MEN, even if it means chaining him to the drawing board, please! Lucky Clark, 101 Woodward Hall, Box 10

Gorham State College, Gorham, Maine 04038

Consider him chained, L. C. — even if that chain has a long, long bunch of links! And if you've noticed, the adrait Mr. Adams is not averse to turning out a mystery masterpiece for us now and then, as well! (i.e., see the current ish of TOWER OF SHADOWS for a truly dynamic delight for the eyes.)

And in case you're wondering why Nefarious Neal drew Dr. Lykos with such hairy arms in this and the previous issue — why, it might just be that the fact that he used to do the syndicated newspaper strip "Ben Casey" had something to do with it!

'We're looking for people who like to draw'

says Norman Rockwell

Today hundreds of men and women who never thought they could be artists are working at easels and drawing boards, making pictures and getting well paid for it. They all can thank a group of famous artists who have devoted much of their time and talent to helping others find success in art,

Some of the people the Famous Artists have helped

Carl Kock was an 18-year-old apprentice in a Chicago art studio when he enrolled, Today he prepares ads for such companies as General Motors and Firestone—has won five gold medals.

Howard Sanden of Minneapolis took the Course while still in high school. He is now a successful artist—recently he and his wife traveled through Europe and the Middle East on important art assignments.

Paul Sullivan enrolled at 14. His Famous Artists training helped him work his way through college.

Kathleen Gironda of Indiana, Pennsylvania, was an 18-year-old salesgirl in a department store. She still works for a department store, but now it's as an advertising artist and fashion illustrator. With Famous Artists training James Ryan, formerly a clerk, has become an illustrator at Hughes Aircraft—and turns out a steady stream of well-paying free-lance artwork in his spare time.

Oregon housewife Helen Tryk lives 150 miles from the nearest big city. But she does fashion illustration, has her own studio, runs an art work shop, does portraits.

A plan to help others

It started over 18 years ago when a group of America's most successful artists—men like Albert Dorne, Norman Rockwell, Jon Whitcomb, Al Parker and Stevan Dohanos—met in New York City. They knew that all over America there were people who liked to draw who could be turned into good artists. Albert Dorne asked, "Why can't we give these people the

Founding Faculty of the Famous Artists School

Norman Rockwell Jon Whitcomb Al Parker Stevan Dohanos George Glusti Peter Helck Fred Ludekens Ben Stahl Robert Fawcett Austin Briggs Harold Von Schmidt Albert Dorne training they need—including all the trade secrets and know-how we've learned over the years?"

He suggested a new kind of art school—a home study art school—that would give talented people the best professional art training, no matter where they live.

The famous artists agreed. Taking time from their busy careers, they created a remarkable series of art lessons covering every aspect of drawing and painting. They illustrated their lessons with over 5,000 "here'show" illustrations. The lessons start from scratch and cover every skill a top artist needs. Finally, they developed a wonderful way to-give each student personal correction and advice all through his training.

The famous artists with the School are not surprised at the success of their students. The opportunities open to successful artists today are enormous. The School continually gets calls from all over the country asking for practical well-trained students—not geniuses—who can step into full-time or part-time art jobs, And practical, thorough training is what the School offers.

Famous Artists Talent Test

To find others with art talent worth developing, the Famous Artists created a 12-page Talent Test. Thousands paid to take this test, but now the School offers and grades it free, Men and women who do well on the test—or offer other sufficient evidence of art talent—may enroll in the School. But there's no obligation. Simply mail the coupon below.
